Design Concept and Process:

Hidden Influences is a collage of photographs and graphics designed in Corel Draw, my computer-drawing program. The two faces float behind a field of rainbow-colored checks. This quilt was printed out in three 12" (30cm) wide sections using the banner setting on my printer. They were then sewn together to form the complete image.

The photographs, of my great-grandmother and me were taken approximately 100 years apart. My 101-year-old father remembered his grandmother as the kindest person he ever met. Although I never met her, her influence can be felt through her picture and through my father's kind and gentle nature.
